ExamWritePad is a 64-bit application and can be run from a network location; for best results, run from the local disk of each computer.

Arm-based/Copilot+ Devices:

Although we conduct limited testing on Arm-based, Copilot+ devices, ExamWritePad has been externally assessed by Microsoft and classified as operating normally on these device types, and we are aware of a growing number of customers also using the software on these devices and seeing positive results. Based on these findings, we are confident that ExamWritePad should run without issue on these devices but would recommend that any customers seeking to use the software on this type of platform conduct their own testing using the built-in 30 day trial to confirm that their specific set-up works as expected.
